Bespoke Approach:

At Oscar Research we are passionate about helping our clients understand and communicate effectively within and to the UK Public Sector; being well placed to assist clients develop their campaigns strategically we have always been happy to discuss specific requirements and help however we can, this has led to us working with public sector bodies and suppliers alike to design and develop a number of flexible and cost effective opportunities which enable our clients to promote themselves directly via the PSN website and e-Newsletters.

The following are two examples of the campaigns undertaken by Oscar clients.

Telecommunications Company:

To complement the supply of communication data and in parallel to their own in-house run campaigns; the client utilised an advert slot on the PSN Map and Directory page to further get their message in front of our 6000 a month unique visitors. The client also took advantage of editorial coverage on the site via a Product and Service article yielding over 2,000 views, together with an advertisement spot in a number of the monthly newsletters sent to over 150,000 post holders across Government.

Event Organiser

Took an annual PSN supplier's subscription in order to receive relevant tender notifications and to upload details of their conferences and seminars to the Events Diary as well as inclusion of their contact information within the PSN supplier directory. They also made use of the newsletter to promote themselves to its 150,000 plus Public Sector audience.

Overall, we can increase the level and depth of coverage by offering bespoke packages giving you the best possible combination of content and media to best exploit our PSN platform and newsletters. We would welcome the opportunity to discuss your particular requirements and objectives and understand how we can help. If you would like more in-depth information and to explore the possibilities, we'd be delighted to hear from you.

Alan Carson, PSN Editor in Chief.

Cabinet Office Commissioning Academy relaunched by social enterprise

The Public Service Transformation Academy will run the Commissioning Academy, a development programme for senior public sector leaders.

The social enterprise the Public Service Transformation Academy has been awarded a concession contract to run the Cabinet Office Commissioning Academy, a leadership programme for public sector commissioners.

The Commissioning Academy aims to help those who work on defining policy, shaping public service provision or allocating resources for services to citizens, to get the best outcome.

The Commissioning Academy was originally launched in 2012 by former Cabinet Office Minister Francis Maude. Over 1,100 senior leaders in central and local government and across public services have already attended the development programmes run by the Academy...

Two boroughs demonstrate outstanding leadership and social work - Two London children's services departments in the capital have been awarded Ofsted's top inspection grade. Westminster, and Royal Borough Kensington and Chelsea, are the first to be judged 'outstanding' under Ofsted's tough single inspection framework. The third borough in the tri-borough partnership, Hammersmith and Fulham, has also been rated as 'good' by the inspectorate. Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, Sir Michael Wilshaw said: "The tri-borough partnership has shown what can be achieved."
